 - (iv) a sufficiently clear representation of the industrial design;
 - (v) indication of the products to which the industrial design is applied or embodied.
- (b) shall attach the following facts, if necessary, in addition to the facts in subsection (a):
 - (i) where the application is filed for a legal entity, registration number, type and name of the country of that legal entity;
 - (ii) where the applicant wants to take advantage of the priority of an earlier application, a declaration claiming the priority of that earlier application, together with indications and evidence in support of the declaration of priority;
 - (iii) where the applicant wants to take advantage of any priority resulting from the display of industrial design in an exhibition, a declaration to that effect, together with indications and evidence in support of that declaration of exhibition priority;

- (iv) any other elements prescribed by the Agency and Department from time to time.

23. The date on which the application of industrial design, in accordance with subsection (a) of section 22, received by the Department, shall be presumed to be the filing date of the application for registration in the State, subject to the payment of fees.

24. The Registrar shall:

- (a) where more than one party applies to register identical or similar industrial designs on different dates and any dispute arises, grant registration to the earliest applicant submitting the application consistent with the requirements for registration;
- (b) where each and every applicant claims the right of priority or the right of exhibition priority under subsection (a) and any dispute arises, grant registration to the applicant submitting the application for the registration of the industrial design that has earliest filing date and conforms with the requirements for registration.

25. Where more than one applicant have filed the application for the registration of identical or similar industrial design on the same date or have requested for the same priority date:

- (a) the Registrar shall direct all applicants to submit the name of a person whom they want to prescribe as the applicant for industrial design after consultation among themselves, within the prescribed period.
- (b) the applicants shall, in accordance with the direction of the Registrar, resubmit the name of a person whom they have agreed to specify as an industrial design applicant after consultation among them or if desire to prescribe as joint applicant, such point to the Registrar.
- (c) although the Registrar directs all applicants under subsection (a), if no agreement is reached among them, the applicants shall follow the Registrar's decision in the prescribed manner.

26. (a) The applicant for the registration of industrial design:

- (i) may file with the Registrar to correct any error of translation or transcription, clerical error or other mistakes in any application or document after subscribing the prescribed fees before the Registrar makes the decision on grant of or refusal to an application or before the Agency makes the decision on the appeal against the decision of the Registrar;
- (ii) may request to withdraw the application with respect to all or some of industrial designs if the application contains more than one industrial design;
- (iii) may apply to divide any application listing several designs into two or more new application by paying the prescribed fees.

(b) shall presume the filing date of a new divisional application for registration under clause (iii) of subsection (a) to be the same filing date of original application.

27. The Registrar may amend the application under section 26 in accordance with the stipulations after examining.

Chapter XI

Examination, Opposition and Registration

28. With regard to the application for registration of industrial design, the Examiner shall:

- (a) submit the applications which conform to the provisions of sections 21 and 22 to the Registrar together with remarks after examining whether the application complies with the requirements;
- (b) notify the applicant to amend the application which does not conform to the provisions of sections 21 and 22 with the permission of the Registrar after examining whether the application complies with the requirements. If the applicant fails to amend the application within 30 days from the date of receipt of the notice, the application for the registration shall be considered as withdrawn;

- (c) submit the application to the Registrar together with remarks after examining if the amendment in accordance with the provisions of subsection (b) has been received;
- (d) refuse the application with respect to the industrial design not complying with the definition set out in subsection (j) of section 2 or conforming to subsection (b) of section 16 and submit to the Registrar together with his remarks.

29. (a) Where an applicant for the registration of industrial design has failed to comply with a time limit for an action in a procedure and that failure has the consequence of causing a loss of rights with respect to an application for the registration of industrial design, he may reapply for the registration of industrial design to the Registrar if it meets the following requirements:

- (i) submitting a request within 60 days from the date of withdrawal of the application in respect of the cause of failure to comply with the time limit;
- (ii) providing the requirements, information or explanations in respect of the cause of failure to comply with the time limit;
- (iii) describing the sufficient reasons in the request for the failure to comply with the time limit;
- (iv) fees which had been paid.

(b) The Registrar shall suspend the reinstatement of rights under subsection (a) within the period of appeal.

30. The Registrar:

- (a) may allow the request after examining the application if it is likely to cause the loss of rights in respect of the application for the registration of abandoned industrial design and reapplying the application under subsection (a) of section 29;

- (b) shall publish the application in order to oppose for any person in the prescribed manner and that application complies with sections 21 and 22;
- (c) shall not publish until the expiration of the period of deferment if the deferment of publication has been requested by the applicant under section 36.

31. Any person may oppose with respect to the application for the registration of industrial design within 60 days from the date of publication and submit objections in writing on the following grounds to the Registrar together with the prescribed fees:

- (a) the industrial design does not meet with the definition of industrial design set out in subsection (j) of section 2;
- (b) the industrial design lacks novelty;
- (c) the industrial design falls in matter excluded from the protection of industrial design under section 16;
- (d) the sufficient ground appears for evidence that the applicant is not entitled to file.

32. If the Registrar receives the opposition, he shall send a notice to the applicant to defend the objections within the prescribed period.

33. With respect to application for registration of industrial design, the Registrar:

- (a) may grant the application for registration of industrial design if the opposition is not filed within 60 days from the date of publication;
- (b) may grant or refuse the opposition after examining it if the opposition is filed;
- (c) shall record such grant or refusal in the register and notify the applicant. In addition, he shall publish such grant or refusal in the prescribed manner;
- (d) shall issue the certificate of registered industrial design to the applicant if the registration is granted.

34. The owner of industrial design:

- (a) may apply to the Registrar to issue the certified copy of the certificate of a registered industrial design after subscribing the prescribed fees if the original certificate is damaged or lost;
- (b) may apply to the Registrar to correct clerical error or other mistakes that may be permitted to correct or to change nationality and address recorded in the register after subscribing the prescribed fees.

35. The Registrar:

- (a) shall issue the certified copy of the certificate of registered industrial design after examining the application under subsection (a) of section 34;
- (b) may amend the application after examining under subsection (b) of section 34.

Chapter XII

Deferment of Publication of Industrial Design

36. An applicant may request to the Registrar to defer the publication of industrial design and describe the period of deferment in the application in the manner prescribed. Such period of deferment shall not exceed 18 months from the filing date of application for the registration of industrial design or from the date of priority if right of priority is claimed.

37. Even if the applicant has requested to defer the publication under section 36, he may withdraw that request and request to the Registrar to publish the industrial design at any time within such period.

38. The Registrar, with respect to the deferment of industrial design publication:

- (a) shall record it in the register and keep file related to the industrial design confidential if the deferment is made under section 36;
- (b) shall publish the deferment of the publication and identification of the applicant, the filing date of application, the length of the period for which it has been requested and any other prescribed particulars during the period of deferment;

- (c) shall publish the industrial design application for registration after expiring of the period of that deferment.

Chapter XIII

Right of Priority

39. An applicant who has duly filed an application for the registration of the industrial design in a state that is party to the Paris Convention or the agreement establishing the World Trade Organization, or a successor to such an applicant, shall, when filing an application to the Department of the same industrial design, enjoy the right of priority of six months from the filing date of the first application.

40. Where the applicant has disclosed the industrial design at an official or officially recognized international exhibition held in a member State of the Paris Convention or the World Trade Organization, he may claim a right of priority from the date of the first disclosure of such industrial design in the exhibition, if he files the application within a period of 6 months from that date.

41. The exhibition priority shall not extend the priority term established under section 39.

Chapter XIV

Term of the Registration of Industrial Design and Renewal

42. The term of the registered industrial design shall be 5 years from the filing date of the registration of industrial design and may be renewal, for not more than two consecutive periods of five years each.

43. The owner of the registered industrial design shall carry out the followings, if he wants to renew of his registered industrial design:

- (a) he shall apply to renew within 6 months before the expiry of the term of the registration of industrial design by subscribing the prescribed fee;
- (b) he may apply to renew within the grace period of 6 months after the expiry of the term of registration of industrial design. He shall pay the prescribed registration fees and late fees when applying as such.

44. The Registrar shall:

- (a) grant the request for renewal which conforms with the requirements. The renewal shall come into force from the date of expiry of the previous registration.
- (b) renew the term of five years in accordance with the stipulations and publish it in the prescribed manner after examining the application for renewal of registration.
- (c) record the renewal and subscribed fee in the register.
- (d) lapse the registered industrial design if the owner of the registered industrial design does not subscribe the renewal fee within the grace period of six months.
- (e) record the lapse of registered industrial design in the register and publish it in the prescribed manner.

Chapter XV

Rights of Registered Industrial Design

45. If the owner of registered industrial design complies with the provisions in Chapter XIV, he enjoys the rights of registered industrial design in this Chapter within the period of the registration of industrial design.

46. Without prejudice to the provisions in sections 49 and 50, the owner of the registered industrial design is entitled:

- (a) as an exclusive right:
 - (i) to prevent a third party not having the owner's consent from making, selling or importing the products bearing or embodying an industrial design which is a copy or substantially a copy of the registered industrial design when such acts are undertaken for commercial purposes in accordance with this law.
 - (ii) to file litigation against the infringer of the rights of registered industrial design in a civil action.

- (b) to transfer or license the rights of registered industrial design to any other person in accordance with the provisions in Chapters XVI and XVII.

47. The employer shall have a non-exclusive licence on the industrial design that only the employee is entitled to the registration of industrial design under subsection (d) of section 19.

48. Where the industrial design is owned by more than one person, unless agreed otherwise among themselves:

- (a) each and every owner of the registered industrial design has the right to enjoy an equal and undivided share in the rights of registered industrial design;
- (b) each and every owner of the registered industrial design may transfer or license his equal and undivided share in the rights of registered industrial design to any other person;
- (c) each and every owner of the registered industrial design has the right to file litigation against the infringer of the right of registered industrial design in a civil action without obtaining the consent of other joint-owners of the registered industrial design;
- (d) the successor or legal entity in title of each and every owner of the industrial design has the rights mentioned in subsections (a), (b) and (c).

49. The owner of the registered industrial design shall not exercise his rights of industrial design in any of the following points:

- (a) acts done for a private non-commercial purpose;
- (b) acts done for a purpose of experiment or research;
- (c) acts of reproduction for the purpose of making citations or of teaching.

50. The rights conferred by the registration of the industrial design shall not extend to act, in respect of a product embodying the protected industrial design, after the product has been lawfully imported or sold in the State by the registered owner or by a person acting with the owner's consent.

Chapter XVI

Transfer of the Rights of Industrial Design

51. (a) The applicant for the registration of industrial design may apply to the Registrar to record the transfer of his application of design to any person or legal entity in the prescribed manner.
- (b) The owner of industrial design may apply to the Registrar to record the transfer of the ownership of registered industrial design to any person or legal entity in the prescribed manner.
52. The Registrar shall record and publish any change in ownership of the registration of the industrial design where the applicant or the transferee under subsection (a) of section 51 or the owner of registered industrial design or the transferred industrial design owner under subsection (b) of section 51 requests to record in the prescribed manner, by subscribing the prescribed fees.
53. A transfer in the ownership of the registered industrial design shall have no effect unless it is applied to record to the Registrar.

Chapter XVII

Licence of the Registered Industrial Design

54. The owner of the industrial design may license any person or legal entity to use the registered industrial design by determining the terms and conditions.
55. The owner of the registered industrial design or his licensee may apply to the Registrar to record the licence together with the certified copy of licensing documents by subscribing the prescribed fees.
56. The Registrar shall record the licence under section 55 and publish it in the prescribed manner.
57. The Registrar shall cancel the record of a licence, and publish it in the prescribed manners if the owner of industrial design or his licensee applies for cancellation of the record of a licence in the prescribed manner.

58. A licence shall have no effect unless it is applied to record to the Registrar.

Chapter XVIII

Invalidation and Cancellation of Registration of Industrial Design

59. If it is found that any registered industrial design, contrary to section 60, affects the interest of a person or public, a relevant person or legal entity may apply to the Registrar for invalidation or cancellation of the whole or part of the registration of the said industrial design.

60. The Registrar may invalid or cancel the whole or part of the registration of industrial design based on the application of the relevant person or legal entity if the registered industrial design is involved with any of the following facts:

- (a) that the industrial design falls under section 16;
- (b) that the industrial design does not meet with the definition of industrial design set out in subsection (j) of section 2;

- (c) The Intellectual Property Court may further direct the applicant to supply additional information necessary for the identification of the alleged industrial design infringing goods when ordering the provisional measures under subsection (a).
- (d) The Intellectual Property Court shall revoke or cease to have effect the provisional measures ordered under subsection (a) of section 68 and subsection (a) of section 69 upon request of the respondent without prejudice to subsection (b) of section 69, if the civil proceeding is not initiated, within the reasonable period determined by the Intellectual Property Court or in the absence of such determination, within 30 days from the date of ordering the provisional measures, to decide on merits of the case for the injury commencing from the date of execution of the requested provisional measures.
- (e) Where the provisional measures are revoked or where they lapse due to any act or omission by the applicant, or where it is subsequently found that there has been no infringement or probability of infringement of right of registered industrial design, the Intellectual Property Court may order the applicant, upon request of the respondent, to provide the respondent appropriate compensation for any injury caused by these measures.

69. (a) The Intellectual Property Court may make an ex parte order of provisional measures in any of the following conditions:

- (i) where any delay is likely to cause irreparable harm to the right holder;
- (ii) where there is a demonstrable risk of evidence being destroyed.

(b) Where making an ex parte order of provisional measures, the Intellectual Property Court shall:

- (i) notify the respondent of the provisional measures without delay after the execution of the measures;
- (ii) execute the provisional measures within the period determined by the Intellectual Property Court, or in the absence of such determination, within 30 days from the date of notification, if the respondent does not follow the notification;
- (iii) review the provisional measure upon request of the respondent by hearing both sides within the reasonable period, in order to make decision on whether these measures to be modified, revoked or confirmed.

70. The Intellectual Property Court may, in case of infringement of industrial design rights, pass any one or more of the following orders without prejudice to the Civil Law and the Code of Civil Procedure in the proceedings under subsection (b) of section 67:

- (a) an injunction against the infringement of industrial design rights, including the prevention of the entry into the channels of the commerce of the State of imported industrial design infringing goods after paying leviable duties to the Customs Department and customs clearance;
- (b) an order to pay the right holder sufficient damages for the injury that the right holder has suffered due to the infringement of industrial design rights by the infringer or an order to pay the right holder for pre-established damages or the profits obtained by the infringer or both, in appropriate cases;

- (c) an order to pay the right holder appropriate expenses including legal costs and attorney's fees.

71. (a) When making the final decision on the infringement upon request of the right holder, the Intellectual Property Court may pass the following orders regarding exhibits in accordance with the Code of Civil Procedure:

- (i) destroying the infringing goods or preventing such goods from entering into the channels of commerce;
- (ii) preventing the materials or implements used in creating the infringing goods without compensation of any sort entry into the channels of commerce to minimize the risks of further infringement.

(b) The Intellectual Property Court shall take into account the following facts in exercising under subsection (a):

- (i) the deterrent effects of issuing the injunction;
- (ii) the destruction shall be proportional to the seriousness of the infringement;
- (iii) the effect on the environment of the manner of destruction;
and
- (iv) negative effect on the legitimate interests of third parties.

72. The Intellectual Property Court may order the applicant to pay the respondent compensation and legal costs including attorney's fees and other expenses of the respondent who has been wrongfully restrained by the complaint where the complaint about the infringement of right of registered industrial design is appeared incorrect and dishonest.

73. (a) The Intellectual Property Court may order the adverse party to produce evidence, by ensuring the protection of confidential information in appropriate cases, without prejudice to the provisions of existing laws, for the following conditions:

- (i) when the right holder has produced valid evidence to support his claims sufficiently;
 - (ii) when the right holder has specified that the valid evidence relevant to his claims are in the hand of the adverse party.
- (b) The Intellectual Property Court may, in voluntary infringement without sufficient reason, make preliminary and final determinations such as affirmation or rejection based on the information including allegation and declination, subject to providing the parties an opportunity to be heard on allegation or evidence in the following situations:
- (i) refusing to provide necessary information;
 - (ii) not providing necessary information within a reasonable period;
 - (iii) significantly impeding the procedure relating to an enforcement action.

74. The Intellectual Property Court may apply the provisions in the Evidence Act, the Code of Civil Procedure and other relevant existing laws if it is not provided expressly in this Law in respect of the enforcement actions for the infringement of right of registered industrial design.
